"I'd lost weight many times before and always put it back on. I knew I needed help," says Bobbi Sale, Olathe. She knew her weight was compromising her health and making everyday invasive weight loss surgery options—gastric banding, bypass, sleeve gastrectomy, and duodenal switch. Participants go through a thorough evaluation and education process to be sure surgery is right for them. "You get an exercise physiologist, nutritionist, and registered nurse who are right there whenever you need them," Bobbi says. A few months after gastric band surgery, Bobbi said goodbye to almost 50 pounds and a blood pressure medication.
